How the OS Works

The FAMA Creative Strategy OS helps you move from research to production-ready creative without letting AI take over the strategic decisions.

THE FAMA LOOP

INPUT

AI OUTPUT

QUALITY CHECK

STRATEGIST APPROVAL

NEXT STEP

WHY WE USE QUALITY GATES

- A weak research summary creates weak concepts.
- A weak concept creates weak angles.
- A weak angle creates weak hooks.
- A weak hook or brief creates weak execution.
- Quality checks stop bad decisions before they move downstream.

STUDENT RULE

Do not move to the next step just because AI produced an answer. Review it. Run the quality check. Fix what is weak. Then approve it.

APPROVED INPUT RULE

Treat approved strategic inputs as the source of truth for the next step. Do not replace or reopen them unless you intentionally want to change the strategy.

Strategist approved. Only move forward when you can explain why the output deserves to continue.

8 QUALITY CONTROL

9 PRODUCTION READY

1 RESEARCH PACK

Do: Complete the FAMA market research process. This was the Day 5 Lesson

Output: Full evidence-rich research pack.

Purpose: Build the source material for the rest of the OS.

2 RESEARCH INSIGHTS SIMPLIFIER

Give AI: Full research pack.

Output: Simple creative strategy summary.

Quality gate: Evidence, clarity, correct labels, no invented facts.

3 CONCEPT BUILDER

Give AI: Research summary, brand, offer, personas, desires, optional trends and creative opportunities.

Output: Multiple concepts.

Quality gate: Persona + Desire + Offer, distinct, clear, honestly sourced.

4 ANGLE BUILDER

Give AI: Selected concept, persona, desire, offer, awareness, supporting inputs.

Output: Multiple persuasion approaches.

Quality gate: Same concept, clear persuasion job, fits awareness.

5 HOOK BUILDER

Give AI: Selected angle, persona, awareness, voice, format, useful VOC.

Output: Multiple hooks.

Quality gate: Attention, relevance, framing, same body.

6 VIDEO BRIEF BUILDER

Give AI: Approved strategy, allowed proof/claims, reference if any.

Output: Production-ready video brief.

Quality gate: Conversion potential, simple language, producible execution.

7

STATIC BRIEF BUILDER

Give AI: Approved strategy, reference static, allowed proof and offer details.

Output: Production-ready static brief.

Quality gate: Clear in one second, strong hierarchy, execution fits strategy.

8

QUALITY CONTROL

Do: Run the matching QC gate at each important stage.

Output: PASS, NEEDS FIXING, and exact revisions.

Rule: Fix weak outputs before they move downstream.

9

PRODUCTION READY CHECK

Ask: Can someone else produce this without inventing the ad for you?

If yes: Approve for production.

If no: Return to the weak step.

INPUT GUIDE

What Should I Attach?

STAGE	FULL RESEARCH PACK?	BEST INPUT	MAIN JOB
Research Insights Simplifier	REQUIRED	Full research pack	Turn dense research into a simple working summary.
Concept Builder	OPTIONAL	Research summary + strategic inputs + optional trends	Expand the creative opportunity space.
Angle Builder	NO	Selected concept + persona + desire + offer + awareness	Create different persuasion approaches.
Hook Builder	NO	Selected angle + persona + awareness + voice/format	Create strong entrances into the same argument.
Video Brief Builder	NO	Approved strategy + allowed proof/claims + reference if any	Turn strategy into a producible video ad.
Static Brief Builder	NO	Approved strategy + reference static + allowed proof/offer	Adapt an execution pattern to the business.

Pass decisions forward. Once a concept, angle, persona, desire, awareness level, or other strategic input is approved, use that approved decision in the next prompt.

DO NOT CONFUSE THESE

TRIGGER MOMENT

What made them start looking now.

PURCHASE DRIVER

What makes them want to choose or buy.

OBJECTION

What they are unsure or skeptical about.

FRICTION

What makes buying harder, slower, or easier to delay.

Research Insights Simplifier Prompt

PROMPT

ROLE

Act as a senior market research analyst and Meta ads creative strategist. You are excellent at turning dense customer research into simple, useful creative insights that a beginner can understand.

TASK

Turn the detailed market research pack into a simple creative strategy summary. Your job is NOT to rewrite the whole research. Extract only the most useful insights for ad strategy and creative development.

WRITING RULES:

- Write in very simple English.
- Aim for a fifth-grade reading level.
- Use short sentences and everyday words.
- Avoid jargon, academic language, consulting-style words, and abstract phrasing.
- Make the output easy to scan for someone who is not used to reading research.
- Do not invent anything.
- If something is an inference, label it INFERENCE.
- If evidence is weak, say NOT ENOUGH EVIDENCE.

Create these sections. KEEP THE DEFINITION UNDER EACH HEADING IN THE OUTPUT.

1. TOP 5 DESIRES

What this means: What do they really want to experience, achieve, avoid, or become?

For each: Desire | What they really want | Evidence/source summary | Why it matters for ads.

2. TOP 5 PAIN POINTS

What this means: What problems, frustrations, or struggles are they dealing with?

For each: Pain point | What it looks like in real life | Evidence/source summary | Why it matters for ads.

3. TOP 5 OBJECTIONS

What this means: What are they unsure, worried, or skeptical about?

For each: Objection | What they may be thinking | Evidence/source summary | What the ad may need to address.

4. TOP 5 TRIGGER MOMENTS

What this means: What happened that made them start looking for a solution?

For each: Trigger moment | What is happening | What they may feel or think | Evidence/source summary.

5. TOP 5 BUYER SEGMENTS

What this means: What meaningful groups of buyers share the same situation, need, or motivation?

For each: Segment name | Who they are | Main problem | Main desire | Main buying reason.

Avoid broad demographic-only segments.

6. PERSONA GAPS

What this means: What important buyer types or situations are not well represented in the brand's current ads?

For each: Missing persona | Why they matter | Evidence | Why this may be a creative opportunity.

If none are clear, say NO CLEAR PERSONA GAP FOUND.

7. TOP 5 WHITE-SPACE OPPORTUNITIES

What this means: What useful messages, situations, needs, or angles are not being talked about enough?

For each: Opportunity | What is being missed | Evidence | Why it may be worth testing.

Do not present these as guaranteed winners.

8. TOP 5 BELIEFS / MISBELIEFS

What this means: What do customers believe that affects whether they buy?

For each: Belief or misbelief | Why it affects buying | Evidence | What the ad may need to explain, reframe, or prove.

9. TOP 5 PROOF POINTS CUSTOMERS NEED

What this means: What do they need to see, understand, or believe before they feel confident buying?

For each: What they need to believe | Why they may doubt it | What proof may help | Evidence.

Do not invent proof that does not exist.

10. TOP 5 REPEATED CUSTOMER PHRASES / VOC

What this means: What exact words or phrases do customers repeatedly use?

For each: Customer phrase | What it tells us | Where it came from.

Do not rewrite quotes to sound better.

11. TOP 5 PURCHASE DRIVERS

What this means: What makes them want to choose or buy this product?

For each: Driver | Why it matters | Evidence.

12. TOP 5 FRICTIONS

What this means: What makes buying harder, slower, or easier to delay?

For each: Friction | What is stopping them | Evidence | What the ad or offer may need to solve.

FINAL SECTION: CREATIVE STRATEGY CHEAT SHEET

Keep the labels and definitions in the output.

- Most important desire - what they want most:
- Most important pain - what hurts most:
- Biggest objection - what they are unsure about:
- Strongest trigger moment - what made them start looking now:
- Most promising buyer segment - who looks most important:
- Biggest persona gap - who current ads may be missing:
- Biggest white-space opportunity - what is not talked about enough:
- Most important belief to build - what they need to believe:
- Most important proof needed - what they need to see or understand:
- Best VOC phrase - exact customer language to remember:
- Biggest purchase driver - what makes them want to buy:
- Biggest friction - what makes buying harder or easier to delay:

Research Insights Simplifier Quality Check

EVIDENCE

- ☒ Every major point is supported by the research.
- ☐ No invented facts, quotes, claims, or motivations.
- ☐ Inferences are labeled.
- ☐ Weak evidence is called out.

CORRECT LABELS

- ☐ Trigger moments are not purchase drivers.
- ☐ Objections are not frictions.
- ☐ Buyer segments are meaningful situations, not only demographics.
- ☐ Persona gaps are based on current creative coverage.

SIMPLE LANGUAGE

- ☐ Fifth-grade reading level.
- ☐ Short sentences.
- ☐ Everyday words.
- ☐ No jargon or high-faluting language.

USEFUL FOR CREATIVE

- ☐ Insights can actually help generate concepts, angles, hooks, or proof.
- ☐ VOC is specific and real.
- ☐ White space is clearly explained.
- ☐ The cheat sheet is easy to scan.

PASS WHEN

A student can read the summary once and explain the customer, the buying situation, the biggest barriers, and the best creative opportunities in plain English.

FIX BEFORE MOVING ON

Anything sounds vague, academic, invented, mislabeled, or hard to explain.

QUALITY CHECK PROMPT

Review this research summary against the FAMA quality gate. List what PASSES, what NEEDS FIXING, and the exact revision needed. Do not rewrite the strategy unless a correction is required.

Concept Builder Prompt

PROMPT

ROLE

Act as a senior direct-response Meta ads creative strategist. You are skilled at turning customer insight, strategy, cultural moments, platform behavior, and creative opportunities into clear, testable concepts.

TASK

Generate Meta ad CREATIVE CONCEPTS.

FAMA DEFINITION:

A Concept is the big creative idea created from the intersection of:

PERSONA + DESIRE + OFFER

The concept answers: "What is the big idea this ad is built around?"

I will give you:

- Brand / Product
- Offer
- Simple Research Insights Simplifier
- Voice of Customer
- Customer Desires
- Personas
- Objections
- Competitor or Creative Gaps
- Emerging Trends or Cultural Moments, if available
- Platform or Creator Trends, if available
- Any additional strategic observations

Generate [NUMBER] meaningfully different creative concepts.

For each concept, provide:

1. CONCEPT NAME - short and memorable.
2. PERSONA - who it is for.
3. CORE DESIRE - what they want.
4. OFFER ROLE - how the product naturally fits the desire.
5. IDEA SOURCE - one or more: Research Insight, VOC, Objection, Competitor Gap, Creative Gap, Emerging Trend, Cultural Moment, Platform Behavior, Seasonal Opportunity, Visual Opportunity, Strategic Inference, Original Creative Exploration.
6. WHY IT MAY BE WORTH TESTING - short strategic reason.

IMPORTANT:

- Research-backed concepts are encouraged when supported.
- Do not force every concept to come from research.

- Trend-led, cultural, visual, seasonal, and original exploratory ideas are valid.
- Clearly label the source of the idea.
- Do not present exploratory ideas as research-proven.
- Do not invent customer quotes, proof, claims, statistics, mechanisms, testimonials, or market facts.
- Make each concept meaningfully different.
- Avoid vague ideas like "Feel Better" or "Convenience."
- Do not generate angles, hooks, scripts, or formats yet.
- Use simple English. Keep concept explanations easy to understand.

INPUTS:

[PASTE INPUTS]

CONCEPT QUALITY CONTROL

Concept Builder Quality Check

CONCEPT TEST

- ☐ Clear Persona + Desire + Offer connection.
- ☐ Feels like a big idea, not a hook or benefit list.
- ☐ Easy to explain in one line.
- ☐ Distinct from the other concepts.

SOURCE HONESTY

- ☐ Research-backed ideas are truly supported.
- ☐ Exploratory ideas are labeled exploratory.
- ☐ Trend-led ideas do not pretend to be customer research.
- ☐ No invented facts or proof.

CREATIVE POTENTIAL

- ☐ Can support multiple angles.
- ☐ Can produce more than one ad execution.
- ☐ Creates a clear role for the offer.
- ☐ Feels relevant to the selected persona.

CLARITY

- ☐ Simple words.
- ☐ No abstract strategy jargon.
- ☐ Student can explain why it matters.
- ☐ Not clever for the sake of cleverness.

QUALITY CHECK PROMPT

Score each concept from 1 to 5 for clarity, persona-desire-offer fit, distinctiveness, creative potential, and source honesty. Flag any concept that is actually an angle, hook, format, or generic benefit. Recommend the strongest options and explain why in simple English.

Angle Builder Prompt

PROMPT

ROLE

Act as a senior direct-response Meta ads creative strategist and copy strategist. You are skilled at finding distinct ways to persuade the same persona within one approved concept.

TASK

Generate Meta ad ANGLES from one approved creative concept.

Treat the strategic inputs below as approved. Do not replace or reinterpret them unless I explicitly ask you to.

FAMA DEFINITIONS:

CONCEPT = the big creative idea.

ANGLE = how we plan to persuade or convince the audience inside that concept.

I will give you:

- Brand / Product
- Offer
- Persona
- Desire
- Awareness Level
- Selected Concept
- Relevant Research or Insights
- Objections or Beliefs, if available
- Creative or Cultural Opportunities, if relevant

Generate [NUMBER] distinct angles for the SAME concept.

For each angle, provide:

1. ANGLE NAME - short internal label.
2. ANGLE STATEMENT - one clear sentence showing how we will persuade.
3. PERSUASION JOB - what should the audience believe, realize, feel, reconsider, or understand?
4. WHY THIS FITS THE PERSONA + DESIRE - short explanation.
5. SOURCE / INSPIRATION - Research-backed, Objection-led, Desire-led, Belief-led, Competitor-gap-led, Trend-led, Cultural, or Exploratory.
6. BEST AWARENESS FIT - Unaware, Problem-Aware, Solution-Aware, Product-Aware, or Most Aware.

IMPORTANT:

- Keep the concept the same.
- Change the persuasion approach.
- The stated Awareness Level is important. Do not write as if the audience knows more or less than the brief says.
- Do not generate hooks or scripts yet.
- Do not invent claims, proof, testimonials, statistics, or mechanisms.

- An angle is not a format.
- An angle is not a benefit list.
- Use simple English. One clear idea per angle.

INPUTS:

[PASTE SELECTED CONCEPT + STRATEGIC INPUTS]

ANGLE QUALITY CONTROL

Angle Builder Quality Check

PERSUASION

- ☐ It clearly says how we will persuade.
- ☐ It is not just a feature or benefit.
- ☐ It is not a format.
- ☐ It is not just a hook.

STRATEGIC FIT

- ☐ Stays inside the selected concept.
- ☐ Fits the persona.
- ☐ Supports the desire.
- ☐ Fits the awareness level.

DISTINCTIVENESS

- ☐ Each angle makes a different argument.
- ☐ Angles are not reworded versions of each other.
- ☐ Each could produce a different ad body.

CLARITY

- ☐ One sentence can explain the angle.
- ☐ No high-faluting language.
- ☐ No invented proof.
- ☐ Easy enough for a fifth grader to understand.

QUALITY CHECK PROMPT

Review the angles. Flag anything that is really a hook, benefit, format, or concept. Check whether each angle stays inside the approved concept and fits the stated awareness level. Score clarity, persuasion strength, persona fit, desire fit, and distinctiveness from 1 to 5.

Hook Builder Prompt

PROMPT

ROLE

Act as a senior direct-response Meta ads copywriter and creative strategist. You are skilled at writing clear, relevant hooks that earn attention and naturally lead into the same angle and body.

TASK

Generate Meta ad HOOKS from one approved creative angle.

Treat the strategic inputs below as approved. Do not replace or reinterpret them unless I explicitly ask you to.

FAMA DEFINITIONS:

CONCEPT = the big creative idea.

ANGLE = how we persuade.

HOOK = the opening that earns attention and leads naturally into the angle.

A strong hook should do 3 things:

1. Earn attention.
2. Create relevance.
3. Frame the ad.

I will give you:

- Brand / Product
- Persona
- Desire
- Awareness Level
- Concept
- Angle
- Voice
- Format, if already chosen
- Relevant VOC or Research
- Any creative or trend inspiration

Generate [NUMBER] hooks.

For each hook, provide:

1. HOOK - the actual opening line.
2. HOOK TYPE - Problem Callout, Direct Question, POV, Story Opening, Reframe, Contrarian, Curiosity, Desire-Led, Objection-Led, Demonstration-Led, Offer-Led, Persona Callout, or another clearly labeled type.
3. WHO / RELEVANCE - who should recognize this is for them?
4. TENSION / FRAME - what problem, desire, belief, or situation does it establish?
5. WHY IT LEADS INTO THE ANGLE - one short explanation.

IMPORTANT:

- All hooks must lead naturally into the SAME angle.
- Ideally, all selected hooks should lead into the SAME body.
- Do not introduce a different promise just to make the hook dramatic.
- Match the awareness level.
- Prioritize clarity and relevance over cleverness.
- Use supplied customer language where useful.
- Do not invent proof, quotes, claims, statistics, or testimonials.
- Avoid generic hooks like "Stop scrolling" unless strategically justified.
- Use simple everyday language.

INPUTS:

[PASTE ANGLE + STRATEGIC INPUTS]

HOOK QUALITY CONTROL

Hook Builder Quality Check

THREE JOBS

- ☐ Earns attention.
- ☐ Creates relevance.
- ☐ Frames the angle.
- ☐ Does not rely only on shock.

SAME AD

- ☐ Selected hooks can feed the same body.
- ☐ No hook changes the core promise.
- ☐ No hook secretly creates a different angle.

AUDIENCE FIT

- ☐ Matches the persona.
- ☐ Matches awareness.
- ☐ Sounds natural for the chosen voice.
- ☐ Fits the chosen format.

LANGUAGE

- ☐ Clear in one listen.
- ☐ Simple words.
- ☐ No jargon.
- ☐ No unsupported claims.

QUALITY CHECK PROMPT

Review these hooks for attention, relevance, framing, awareness fit, and ability to lead into the same body. Flag any hook that needs a different body or makes a different promise. Rank the strongest hooks and explain why in simple English.

Video Brief Builder Prompt

PROMPT

ROLE

Act as a senior Meta ads creative strategist and direct-response copywriter. You write production-ready video briefs designed for strong conversion potential, clear persuasion, natural spoken language, and easy execution by creators and editors.

TASK

Write a production-ready Meta VIDEO creative brief with strong conversion potential.

Treat the strategic inputs below as approved. Do not replace or reinterpret them unless I explicitly ask you to.

Do not invent customer quotes, claims, statistics, testimonials, offer details, guarantees, proof, results, or urgency that I have not supplied.

USE THE EXACT FAMA CREATIVE BRIEF STRUCTURE:

HYPOTHESIS - why this direction may be worth testing.

DESIRE - the human experience or outcome the persona wants.

PERSONA - who this specific ad is for.

OFFER - what we are asking them to buy or do.

AWARENESS - Unaware, Problem-Aware, Solution-Aware, Product-Aware, or Most Aware.

CONCEPT - the big creative idea.

ANGLE - how we plan to persuade.

VOICE - who should deliver the message and why they are believable.

FORMAT - how the message comes alive.

REFERENCE AD, IF ANY - borrow execution traits only, such as pacing, framing, camera style, editing, visual rhythm, or production treatment. Do not borrow persona, concept, angle, claims, or strategy.

SCRIPT:

HOOK 1

HOOK 2

HOOK 3

All 3 hooks must lead naturally into the SAME body.

BODY - one shared body.

CTA - one clear next step.

VISUAL DIRECTIONS - simple scene-by-scene directions beside the lines they support.

CONVERSION + COPY REQUIREMENTS:

- Write for the stated Awareness Level.
- One persona, one core desire, one main message.
- Make the first few seconds easy to understand.
- Make the product role clear.
- Reinforce desire without benefit dumping.
- Use emotion to create desire and logic/proof to build belief.

- Handle objections only when they support the angle.
- Move from problem to better reality without over-agitating.
- Prioritize clarity over cleverness.
- Aim for a fifth-grade reading level.
- Use short sentences and everyday words.
- Avoid high-faluting words, jargon, corporate language, and abstract phrasing.
- Remove slow intros, fluff, repeated thoughts, and empty adjectives.
- Make it sound natural when spoken aloud.
- CTA should be direct and obvious.
- Length follows the amount of persuasion needed, not an arbitrary time limit.

VISUAL RULES:

- Visuals should show or support what is being said.
- Do not add random B-roll.
- Aim for something visually new about every 2 to 3 seconds through a shot change, action, B-roll, framing, demo, on-screen text, or progression.
- Every visual change should support attention, understanding, belief, or product clarity.

If information is missing, flag it instead of inventing it.

STRATEGY

- ☐ Hypothesis is clear.
- ☐ Persona is specific.
- ☐ Desire is human.
- ☐ Awareness is correct.
- ☐ Concept is clear.
- ☐ Angle is focused.

COPY

- ☐ 3 hooks lead to 1 body.
- ☐ One main message.
- ☐ Fifth-grade reading level.
- ☐ Short, natural sentences.
- ☐ No jargon or high-faluting words.
- ☐ CTA is clear.

CONVERSION POTENTIAL

- ☐ Opening earns attention and relevance.
- ☐ Product role is easy to understand.
- ☐ Desire is reinforced.
- ☐ Belief is built with supported logic or proof.
- ☐ Objections are addressed only when useful.
- ☐ No unnecessary delay before the point.

PRODUCTION

- ☐ Voice is believable.
- ☐ Format serves the angle.
- ☐ Visuals support the copy.
- ☐ Something visually new about every 2 to 3 seconds.
- ☐ No random B-roll.
- ☐ Creator/editor does not need to invent the ad.

QUALITY CHECK PROMPT

Review this video brief for strategy, conversion potential, fifth-grade readability, awareness fit, hook-body alignment, product clarity, belief-building, visual execution, and production readiness. List PASS, NEEDS FIXING, and the exact revision needed. Do not change the approved strategy unless there is a clear contradiction.

Static Brief Builder Prompt

PROMPT

ROLE

Act as a senior performance creative strategist and direct-response copywriter specializing in Meta static ads. You understand visual hierarchy, message clarity, awareness levels, execution patterns, and how to adapt a reference ad without copying its strategy.

TASK

Create a production-ready Meta STATIC creative brief with strong conversion potential using an attached reference ad for execution inspiration.

Treat the strategic inputs below as approved. Do not replace or reinterpret them unless I explicitly ask you to. The reference ad is an EXECUTION reference only. Do not copy its brand, persona, offer, headline, customer language, concept, angle, claims, proof, testimonials, statistics, authority, or urgency.

FIRST ANALYZE THE REFERENCE AD:

- Main execution pattern.
- What catches attention first.
- Visual hierarchy: first, second, third.
- Layout structure.
- Headline treatment.
- Product treatment.
- Persona cues.
- Proof or supporting elements actually present.
- Emotional effect.
- What makes it scroll-stopping.
- What should be borrowed for execution only.

THEN USE THE EXACT FAMA STRUCTURE:

HYPOTHESIS

DESIRE

OFFER

AWARENESS

VOICE

FORMAT - write Static + [Execution Pattern]

REFERENCE AD - explain what execution traits we are adapting.

SCRIPT / COPY:

HEADLINE / HOOK 1

HEADLINE / HOOK 2

HEADLINE / HOOK 3

CORE MESSAGE

CTA

VISUAL DIRECTIONS:

Give production-ready guidance for layout, headline placement, product placement, persona cues, imagery, proof placement, offer placement, CTA placement, text sizing, text shape if relevant, contrast, whitespace, and emotional effect.

VISUAL HIERARCHY:

1. First thing the viewer should notice.
2. Second thing.
3. Third thing.

CONVERSION + COPY REQUIREMENTS:

- Match the stated Awareness Level.
- Decide what the viewer still needs to understand, believe, or act on.
- One concept, one angle, one main message.
- The static should be understandable in about one second.
- Headline should be short, specific, and easy to understand.
- Aim for a fifth-grade reading level.
- Use everyday words. Avoid jargon and high-faluting language.
- Make the product role clear.
- Use real customer language if supplied.
- Do not overcrowd the static.
- Prioritize clarity unless curiosity is intentional.
- The visual must match the message.
- The ad should make sense to someone unfamiliar with the brand.
- Ad, landing page, and offer should continue the same story.
- Do not invent testimonials, proof, authority badges, before/after results, guarantees, urgency, or claims.
- If the reference uses proof the brand does not have, replace that section with a supported element.
- If something is missing, flag it.
